

Starchannel - the next Generation

Article in SEIN-Magazin February 2011

Many people talk about raising the frequency and huge positive changes to expect in the near future on earth. The Irishman Damien Wynne is a channel for these new frequencies bringing flow into old frozen patterns and releasing blocks. Jörg Engelsing spoke with the lightworker of the next Generation who has contact to the stars since he was a child.

How would you describe your work?

I am a channel bringing a certain energy to the earth. This energy clears the lines of the ancestors and works with the DNA-structure. This energy changes the DNA and opens more strands. In the beginning the energy came down using more than 120 specific activation spots of the body. These spots are connections to the stars and the body seems to remember during activation.

When I touch a person at one of these spots an energetical movement happens, they are like a doorway to the inside. First traumas and heavy energies are cleared as the energy knows where to find them in the body and then it works with the past lifes which are opened and cleared energetically. So the gifts and the knowledge of these past lifes are activated again.

Trauma and blocks of any kind push the spirit out of the body and hinder the connection to nature and mother earth as well as the connection to heaven, to the universe and the stars. The tailbone is an important connection to the earth. When this opening is cleared from trauma you can feel the connection to heaven and earth. Then you have access to a huge knowledge that you do not have to seek but receive it in the moment you need it. This knowledge comes and disappears but you do not have to hold it because you have steady access to it.

In which way do you receive the information how to work?

I am simply guided. I connect to the stars which go with me through the entire process.

How did that all begin?

As a child I always felt like an adult in a child's body. I was very frustrated and wanted to be adult as fast as possible. At that time I already had a very deep connection to the stars and every night I got information about religion, politics and the life itself. I traveled to the stars at night. But at some point I began to block that all. The information was too much for my physical body. I closed it and developed a totally normal personality. At the age of 30 I met a person for a healing session especially for my heart chakra which suddenly opened like an explosion. The healer said to me I should stop my work and begin to work as a healer from now on. This was not my interest but I agreed to train with him. At some point it happened that a kind of green laserlight opened from my third eye. With this light I touched different parts of his body and could see how processes in him worked. Then the color of the light changed and new transformation happened. This was really amazing. Our cooperation ran about a year and with every day of energetical work new information „from above“ came down. With another healer I began to channel 27 different essences and their names. A friend said that every name has a connection to the beings the Brazilian healer Joao de Deus works with. I never heard of them but when my friend talked of him I got the message: Let all behind you and go to him.

And – did you go to him?

Yes but it needed a bit time. I was running a company for fridges and air-conditioners. I said to my business manager that I will go and he said „You are crazy!“. During the next year I settled everything and moved to Budapest (which is another story) and flew to Brazil. Already in the first night I felt how the beings Joao de Deus has contact to worked with me.

I felt no deeper connection to himself but he sent me to a friend giving me an energetic surgery which was opening me more for the spiritual levels. During this surgery I felt very much the divine presence, on my way back to the hotel I collapsed. I felt as if my whole body had been opened and I was very weak. In Brazil I got an intense contact to the local healing beings wanting to work with me.

Back in Budapest I offered them a deal: In case I do this work totally they have to care for my finances.

Like an acknowledgement of this deal next day my first client knocked on my door. He could see all the beings in the room I saw, too. Same with the next patients in the following days. And as they all felt and saw and talked with their friends I had a lot of work immediately and earned enough money. And the beings showed me how to work and where the problems were.

Do you still receive healing information from these beings?

No. At a time when everything ran wonderful I suddenly got difficulties. A woman I worked with defamed me as being a liar and a charlatan. Doubt came up and I lost many clients. What was very negative in the beginning turned out being a gift in the end: I understood how much I depended on the beings of the „Brazilian Connection“. Then I reconnected to the stars as they were my original support and from that moment the healing work changed and got deeper and clearer and many other beings connected with me e.g. the German healer Bruno Gröning (passed in 1959), Jesus or the White Brotherhood. I worked with these saints and many people saw them, too. At that time I was very grateful for these „special effects“ as they stabilized my trust in the guidance.

Then I was asked to teach my healing work. First I refused but then also from my guidance came the task to pass on my knowledge. I very fast organized a workshop in Dublin not knowing what to teach at all. I got everything from moment to moment.

The workshop began with healing meditations but already on the second day a lot of downloads came to anchor all knowledge that I have in the participants. Doing that, they had the same experiences I had with the techniques and information. The interesting point is in the way the universe changes constantly the technique changes, too. This does not matter because in a way not only me but also the participants receive always the last download. When something new is coming down for me all persons that have the activation receive the same actualization – they become channels for healing energies.

Do you receive new „downloads“ very often?

Permanently. Lately a lightgrid came down that allows a sensible contact to the divine. Many people experience themselves as being one with the universe others receive deep knowledge about the universal laws and in some the wrong and artificial belief systems and structures collapse. Certain new techniques change the frequencies of the brain and the entire body and establish the ability to adapt oneself easier to the actual profound changes in the universe. It is like an awakening process – a real fast and easy way to let go old structures and blocks. In a way a supercharging, a reset to the original state. Whoever goes through that 2-day-process is from that moment on like a beacon sending light clearing and activating other people. I can see that crystals in the feet are activated and wherever these people go they bring light to the earth. For the light to spread out more and more I give this activation at as many places as possible. Therefore I got this technique.

Do you believe that we receive something like a shortcut to luck and healing in the moment?

What is coming down as download in the moment seems to be a very fast way to release our blocks. When I see people going through that process I can see that they are connected to what they really are. In that sense it is a shortcut, an extrahelp from above to be ourselves again.
